ABSTRACT

This report provides summary information regarding vocational-technical programs offered in New Mexico postsecondary institutions for the 1985-1986 project year (which includes the 1985 summer and fall semesters and the 1986 spring semester). Program types and locations and student enrollment, characteristics, and enrollment status at the end of the year are described. The report is presented in short narratives and tables. Appendixes list (1) vocational-technical programs with student enrollment by institution and (2) vocational-technical programs with student enrollment by occupational category. (KC)

Introduction

Vocational-technical education occupies a significant place in New Mexico's system of post-secondary education. The more than 13,000 students enrolled in the state's 15 universities, branch campuses, community colleges, and technical-vocational schools represent a potent contribution to New Mexico's economic growth for the future. Vocational-technical education offers an immediate tie between education and the needs of business and industry. The strength of the state's economic development is directly related to trained manpower available to support that development.

This report is designed to give the reader summary information regarding vocational-technical programs offered in New Mexico for the 1985-1986 project year which includes the 1985 summer and fall semesters and the 1986 spring semester. Program types and locations and student enrollment, characteristics and enrollment status at the end of the year will be described. It is the intent of the report to provide worthwhile, timely information to those interested in vocational-technical training in New Mexico.

The Vocational-Technical Information System (VTIS) Project, located at New Mexico State University, receives student enrollment and follow-up data from designated personnel at New Mexico institutions that offer vocational-technical programs, processes the data, and reports to the Vocational-Technical Division of the New Mexico State Department of Education. The individual institutions are responsible for providing accurate data to VTIS. One institution, New Mexico State University's branch at Carlsbad, did not participate in the data collection process for the fiscal year and information about its programs will not be reported here. The classification of occupational programs used in this report follows the system established by the United States Office of Education (USOE).

Institutions and Programs

Institutions

Sixteen New Mexico institutions offered one or more vocational-technical programs during the 1985-1986 program year. These were:

Albuquerque Technical-Vocational Institute, Albuquerque

Eastern New Mexico University, Roswell Campus, Roswell

Eastern New Mexico University, Clovis Branch, Clovis

New Mexico State University, Dona Ana Branch, Las Cruces

Western New Mexico University, Silver City

New Mexico Junior College, Hobbs

University of New Mexico, Los Alamos Campus, Los Alamos

The University of New Mexico, Gallup Campus, Gallup

New Mexico State University, Alamogordo Branch, Alamogordo

Tucumcari Area Vocational School, Tucumcari

Northern New Mexico Community College, Espanola

San Juan College, Farmington

Luna Vocational-Technical Institute, Las Vegas

University of New Mexico, Valencia Campus, Belen

New Mexico State University, Grants Branch, Grants

New Mexico State University, Carlsbad Branch, Carlsbad

Enrollment

Enrollment figures by semester for the 1985-1986 program year are listed in Table 1. The cumulative total for the year (21,793) indicates the number of enrollment forms processed, not the total number of students enrolled during the year. The number of students enrolled during the year can be found in the section, Enrollment Status under Student Characteristics.

The most frequently occurring vocational-technical programs in New Mexico institutions are Computer Programmer, Auto Mechanics, Stenographer & Secretary, Practical Nurse and Welder. See Appendix B for a list of programs by frequency.

Student Characteristics

Tables describing student characteristics are based on student status at the end of the project year and are reported as percentages.

Ethnic Identity and Gender

Students with Hispanic or White (non-Hispanic) ethnic identities accounted for almost 84% of the student population at the postsecondary institutions. Males and females were almost evenly divided. Table 3 summarizes year-end ethnic identity by gender.

Table 3: Ethnic Identity by Gender

Ethnic Background	Female	Male	Total
American Indian	6.5%	5.8%	12.3%
Asian American	0.5%	0.8%	1.3%
Black	1.3%	1.3%	2.6%
Hispanic	18.4%	18.5%	36.9%
White	23.9%	23.0%	46.9%
Total	50.6%	49.4%	100.00%

Age

Students who reported their age on enrollment forms ranged from 17 to 75 with a mean age of 28.2. Approximately half of the students fell in the 21 - 30 year age range. Table 4 shows age distribution of students by gender enrolled during the 1985-1986 year.

Table 4: Age of Students by Gender

Over 60	0.2%	0.2%	0.4%
Total	50.6%	49.4%	100.00%

Marital Status

Marital status was reported by 87% of the students enrolled during the year. The majority of students were single. No difference was seen between males and females as far as marital status was concerned. Table 5 shows marital status of students enrolled during 1985-1986.

Table 5: Marital Status of Students by Gender

Marital status	Female	Male	Total

Single	28.9%	30.7%	59.6%
Total	50.6%	49.4%	100.0%

Education

Approximately half of the students reported completing twelve years of schooling. An additional 23% reported completing more than twelve years of schooling. Less than 13% reported an education level of less than twelve years. Table 6 shows highest grade completed for students enrolled during 1985-1986.

Table 6: Highest Grade Completed by Students by Gender

Grade Completed	Female	Male	Total

School Income

Students were requested to indicate the largest source of income which enabled them to pay for their living expenses while in school. Of the 85% who reported a source, approximately half indicated part time work, help from relatives or financial aid as the major type of school income. Table 9 shows the major source of school income for students enrolled during the year.

Financial Aid

Students were also requested to report all types of financial aid received. Over 65% of the financial aid grants reported came from Basic Grants (BEOG) and/or Veterans Administration. Table 10 shows the number of financial aid grants reported by students during the 1985-1986 year.

Family Income and Number of Dependents

In addition, students were asked to report their family income and number of dependents. Approximately one third of the students came from families earning $6,000 or less. One fifth of the students' families earned $3,000 or less. As income increased, the average number of family dependents increased. Table 11 shows family income level and average number of dependents for students enrolled during 1985-1986.

Enrollment Status

In order to derive the number of students enrolled during the 1985-1986 year, student data from the three semesters is compared and the year-end status of each student is retained. This figure may be slightly lower than if the number of graduates from each semester were totaled. For instance, if a student graduates from one program and then returns and enrolls in another program during the project year, he or she will be counted as attending but not as a graduate.

By year's end approxomately 43% of the students were enrolled in a program, almost 20% had graduated or had obtained a training-related job and about 37% had attended but had withdrawn. Table 12 shows student enrollment status for the year.
